

Abstract of the Disclosure

Sub 1
A method and a system provide switching capabilities that enables a telephone to use one vertical circuit to connect through a packet switched network to any number of other telephones. Multiple multiprotocol convergence switches are connected to each other by ATM virtual circuits to form a telephone network. Each telephone is connected to the network via one of these multiprotocol convergence switches.

10980743.070601